FROM THE EAST

Brethren,

On March 30, 2020, Virginia Governor Ralph S. Northam issued the Executive Order No. 55, Temporary Stay Home Order Due To Novel Coronavirus (COVID 19). In conformity with this Executive Order, our Most Worshipful Grandmaster Douglas V. Jones promulgated the extension of the Moratorium on all Virginia Masonic Lodges' activities until June 10, 2020 which conforms with our Virginia Governor's Executive Order No. 55. (See insert page)

Experts are quick to point out that currently there is no cure or vaccine for the virus, so the best prevention method is to avoid exposure to it. This is especially critical for the most at-risk groups which are adults over 65, people who live in a nursing home or long-term care facility, and those with multiple medical issues such as diabetes, heart condition, asthma etc. Consequently, we are not going to implement our plan to serve you with a pork loin social dinner in June because relaxing social distancing by that time might be too soon and might pose health risks to our members. This virus is a deadly invisible killer, so we must have a vigilant eye as we navigate thru this very unstable situation that could change from day to day. In times like this, we need to be strong, versatile, and focused.

Therefore, the month of May is going to be just like March and April...no lodge activities except for the maintenance crew, Secretary, and Treasurer. Although the lodge is not allowed to have stated communication, degree work and other rituals, we are very much alive and busy with official business, keeping our paper work and accounts flowing along with building electrical, mechanical and grounds maintenance. Our Secretary received two Parking Lot donations last month (April.) from Brother Bob Schratweiser and Brother Cristopher D. Supino.

I am hopeful you and those you love are healthy, safe, and staying home as much as possible.

Sincerely and fraternally
Marlo B. Pilar

FROM THE WEST

Brethren,

Among my several duties at our lodge is that of amateur building maintenance man. It seems something always needs a little attention. A few weeks ago, I was informed that the water valve in the men's restroom was leaking. The cheap zinc valve was dripping and seriously corroded, and looked like it might crumble and spray water at any moment. It had to be replaced, now. Naturally, it wasn't just a simple screw off and screw back on pipe fitting, it was soldered in place. Mounted as it was, in the stall, behind the toilet, it was impossible to both see it, and get two hands on it at the same time to manipulate the torch, solder, flux, pliers and other tools. After several hours of work, I finally had the old valve out, and a new male copper pipe fitting in its place, but I just could not get a good solder joint going, it always leaked when I turned the water back on. Finally, I decided that the only way to get this done right is to remove the toilet so I have room to work and can get both my hands and my eyes all involved at the same time. I removed the rusty bolts securing the toilet to the floor, and tried to lift it. Nothing. It would not budge. I gently rocked it, twisted it, pulled it, pried it, and it was as solid as a rock. Brethren, is this our dilemma, what shall we do?

No, not that, I decided on force, and plenty of it. I straddled the commode, got a good solid grip on the rim, lift with your legs, not your back, and I lifted with everything I have and a grunt that would make a Mauri Haka warrior proud. I woke up unhurt, thank God, lying on my back, staring at the ceiling, wondering where that sound of breaking glass came from, with just the rim of the toilet still clutched in my hands, I started to laugh, what else could I do? It took another couple of hours of work, but I finally triumphed, mission accomplished, and restroom is in good working order. It seems that instead of a wax gasket, someone had used five pounds of plumbers putty and tile grout to seal this toilet to the deck.

There is no moral, or Masonic lesson here, I just thought with all the serious problems going on right now, you might enjoy a little laugh at my expense, I know I did. I felt a little foolish, but things worked out OK. Be safe, Brethren, and I hope to see you all again soon.

Sincerely and Fraternally,
Dale Graham

Give us Hope

When evil darkens our world, give us light. When despair numbs our souls, give us hope. When we stumble and fall, lift us up. When doubts assail us, give us faith. When nothing seems sure, give us trust. When ideals fade, give us vision. When we lose our way, be our guide! That we may find serenity in Your presence, and purpose in doing Your will.

FROM THE SOUTH

I did it! I managed to complete a 47-day spiritual devotional over this Lenten season. But that accomplishment is not what I want to share with you. In the final lesson of the study, there were some truths that I believe every Freemason – whether you just observed Lent and Easter, Passover, Ramadan, or another custom – should strive to accomplish each day.

*Worship the Great Architect of the Universe for who He is in the passages you read each day in the Volume of Sacred Law.

*Pray over the people in your life.

*Remember what the Great Architect of the Universe has done for you and how He has walked you through difficult seasons in life.

*Examine yourself by asking the Great Architect of the Universe to help you become self-aware so that you can grow into the best version of yourself.

*Always look for little and big ways that you can do kind acts for those around you—those you know and those you don't know.

As we continue respond to a global pandemic, remember the Great Architect of the Universe IS our all-powerful, all-knowing, all-encompassing Heavenly Father.
